Will Have Victory Commencement

Everyone Should Attend Exercises
June 22-24.

The State Teachers College will have a victory commencement in order to honor the men and women of the school who have been in the service during the war. Therefore all of the men in the army and navy and the women in Red Cross service have been invited to attend as guests of the college.

All of the alumni should make an effort to attend this commencement as it marks a new era in the history of the school. In addition to celebrating the close of the war, it is the first commencement since the change from a Normal school to a State Teachers College.

Part of the commencement exercises on Tuesday morning will be in the nature of a memorial to the men who gave their lives for their country. President Richardson and Mr. Blagg will each give speeches in memory of the five students who sacrificed their lives in the service. The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City. There will be music by the College chorus. The degrees will be conferred and diplomas awarded by the president of the school.

The Baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. G. S. Cox, Sunday afternoon, June 22.

The class morning program will consist of the cane orations, class poem, reading, tree oration, class song and music by members of the class.

The program for the whole commencement week is as follows:

The Missouri Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association met May 16-17 in Springfield. The annual track and field meet was held at the same time. William Jewell won the meet. The Rolla School of Mines and the Warrensburg Teachers' College were voted into the association.

The officials also voted to admit girls' colleges of the state to the conference to decide basketball and tennis matches. The Cape Girardeau girls won the double championship in tennis.

William Jewell was awarded the 1919 basketball championship. Tentative football schedules were made by the majority of schools present. Maryville will schedule three conference games and three non-conference games. There are now fourteen schools in the conference.

Six schools were represented in the meet and eight schools had representatives at conference. Mr. Swinchart represented the Northwest Teachers College.

Vella Booth entered school Wednesday, June 4.

Term Opens With Big Attendance

Agriculture to Meet All Needs of Community.

That the summer enrollment will reach 500 and better is the indication at present. Over 400 are now registered and there is yet another term to open June 20. To take care of this enrollment adequately, many new teachers have been added to the faculty.

Mr. L. F. Metzler of Newton, Iowa, comes to the college permanently, as instructor in agriculture. Mr. Metzler holds the Bachelor of Arts degree from the Kansas State Normal College at Emporia, Kansas and the Master of Science degree from the Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan. He has had several years experience in practical farm life as well as in his school work. For two years, he was a member of the faculty of the State Normal College, Denton, Texas. He has been teaching this last year in the Newton high school, Newton, Iowa. This school has been operating the Smith Hughes bill. His high school judging team took seven of fourteen first prizes offered in the state judging contest of the agricultural college, Ames, Iowa. This contest was between such schools as cared to enter who were teaching one year or more of agriculture.

Agriculture is coming to the front, especially as a "teaching" subject, and it is the plan of the department to meet the needs of all those in this community who are interested in the study either from the standpoint of teaching or of vocational work. The field is much under-supplied with teachers equipped to work under the Smith Hughes bill and there is a vast opening here. Mr. Metzler would like to talk these opportunities over with any of the students of the institution who are interested.

Additions to the faculty for the summer include: Miss Mabel Arnett, professor of education, William Woods College, Fulton, Mo., education and history; Superintendent Egbert Jennings, King City, education; Beatrice Sewell, who has been teaching in Flagler, Colorado, English; Superintendent J. M. McDonald, Maryville, mathematics; Superintendent Warren Breit of Forest City, commerce; Superintendent Henry Miller, Union Star, history; O. E. Jones, who has been teaching in Leavenworth, Kansas, geography; Misses Myrtle Ballard, Vi June Colden, Dale Hulet, Harriett Van Buren, assistants in the library.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, 1919.

MR. FORD TALKS ABOUT PANAMA.

Stanley R. Ford, a government employee in Panama, talked at assembly Tuesday, June 3.

Mr. Ford told of the great accomplishment in sanitation on the Isthmus. By screening the houses the yellow fever mosquito has been exterminated. Thru the use of oil in the running streams and by intense cleanliness in the towns malaria fever is well under control. The towns are spotless, the streets are swept daily and flies are not a pest. The government owns all buildings and pays all expenses.

The Panama district did its share during the war. Five hundred Americans, of the twenty-five hundred employed there went into military service. In each Liberty Loan drive about $400 per capita was subscribed. The source of supplies was changed from North America to South America during the war. Cattle were brought into the country and new crops were raised.

The children of the Isthmus are sent to the States at the age of twelve, in order that they may understand that they are Americans.

The entire talk by Mr. Ford was very interesting because of the personal element.

LITERARY SOCIETY NOTES.

Eurekan Society.

The Eurekan Society met Thursday, May 29, at 3:35 in room 301.

The opening number was a piano solo by Maye Rust. The next number was a series of readings by Mary Esther Murphy. Inez Wood read "Sonny's Christening." Lou Mutz sang "The Bluebird." The last number was a story, "The Necklace," by Hattie Hall.

Mr. Osborn and Ralph Yehle played a violin duet Thursday, June 5, at the Eurekan program. That was followed by a number which proves that the Eurekans believe in practical things. The project method of teaching civics brings the community into contact with the work of the court and officers. This project was developed in a mock trial. Court opened officially with Lee Scarlett acting as presiding judge and "Bill" Richards as sheriff. One case was tried. Sarah May Louella Mutz vs. Epaminondas Appendix Jack Earl Bland for breach of promise. Mary Condon and Joe Ferguson were attorneys for the plaintiff. Etha Henderson and Harold Wiseman were attorneys for the defendant. Members of the jury were: Esther Dietz, Mrs. Bird, Essie Ward, Mary Heifner, Matie Evans, and Mildred Shinabargar. It was quiet in the court room when Essie Ward read the verdict of the jury. Bland was declared guilty.

The above program was instructive as well as entertaining.

Visitors are welcome at all meetings.

Philomathean Society.

Philomatheans Returned from Service.

Two Philos and a faculty member told the society of their experiences in Uncle Sam's service, at our regular meeting May 29. Mr. Howard, of the history department, told us of his experience in the army, his general impressions of camp life, work in the artillery and life as a commissioned officer.

George Wamsley gave a brief account of life in the trenches and related some of his most exciting experiences with the enemy.

Henry A. Miller talked about the work of the radio department, the importance of this department, and his experiences at the Great Lakes, at Harvard, and in Canada.

The instrumental solo by Lillie Nelson was followed by a song by the society.

We are having some good meetings now. If you want to enjoy a Hawatian program, come to room 319, June 12, at 3:25.

The Philos gave a party for their old and new members at 3:35, Thursday, June 5, in the ladies' parlor. Each one present was given one letter of the alphabet and told to see how many words he could make by grouping his letter with the letters of people to whom he talked. Henry Miller was given a Ford for making the most words. The usual 'Philo circle story' was interesting. The hero of the story had many exciting experiences and narrow escapes.

Punch was served; and the guests departed for home declaring the Philos were the best of all the rest.

Excelsior Society.

The Excelsior program May 29 was a fitting memorial program. Ethel Sloan gave a pleasing talk on the origin of Memorial Day. Ruth Foland played a delightful piano selection. Bernice Westfall gave a toast to the heroes of all the wars. Elgiva Johnson read "In Flanders Fields" and "America's Answer." The meeting closed with the singing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic by the entire society.

Backward, turn backward

O time in thy flight,

Make me a child again

Just for tonight!

Virginia Lawson aided by Laveta McClanahan and Helen Miller gave a "backward" program at the Excelsior meeting June 5. After the business meeting, which was held first, the audience, with their faces to the wall, listened to this very pleasing and entertaining program:

Dr. Davis gave a commencement address at Plattsburg, May 30. June 2, he attended the League of Nations meeting at Des Moines, Iowa, where ex-president Taft spoke. Dr. Davis also visited the State Agricultural College at Ames, Iowa, where he observed particularly the education department.

REV. SNODGRASS TALKS AT ASSEMBLY.

Rev. Snodgrass of the First Christian Church talked to the students, Tuesday, May 27, on the "Value and Worth of Education." The talk was very instructive.

Rev. Snodgrass showed that the educated mind is the nation's greatest commonwealth. The riches of the country are valuable only as the educated mind is applied to develop them.

"As an item of public property the mind deserves more cultivation, more labor than any other item of public property on earth."

The speaker showed by allusion to history, that the educated mind is a better means of a nation's defense than big navies or shipyards.

The educated mind is the best means of a nation's prosperity. It is less expensive to educate a child than to support an aged criminal. Rev. Snodgrass cited statistics of the Ohio and Connecticut prisons showing the majority were ignorant men. The state has no right to punish men for a crime she is responsible for.

The teachers hold the destiny of the world, in their hands, but the large expenses and poor salary are driving many out of the profession.

It is necessary for the government to spend billions on education, if schools are to be efficient.

The education implied is that which will adorn and beautify the mind, body and spirit.

L. L. LIVENGOOD WRITES OF COMPANY HISTORY.

Mr. Miller has recently received a letter from Corporal L. L. Livengood, saying he will soon be on his way home. Accompanying his letter was a history of company A, 356th Infantry, 89th division.

On the third day of June, 1918, company A boarded the English ship Cornelia, and reached Liverpool, England on the sixteenth. Several days were spent in a rest camp and in getting to La Havre, France, where they landed June 21. From there they hiked to Tiffol le Grand, France, which was to be their training sector for the next six weeks.

On Aug. 4 they started for the front, and on Aug. 15 were ordered to take over a sector in the front line opposite Xivray and Montsee. They took position in Hazel Woods on Sept. 10 and began their fighting on the twelfth. Until Oct. 8, positions were held in Xammous woods and near Thiacourt, when rest came until the fourteenth.

They began hiking again Oct. 14 until they reached "Mud Valley" where they camped until Oct. 19. The Bois de Bantheville was cleaned of the enemy Oct. 21 and 22. After being relieved in Bantheville woods the company moved back to a position in reserve near Gesnes, France where they remained until Nov. 1, when the final offensive of the war was commenced—and they moved out in support of the 177th Brigade, who were in the front line. On the morning of Nov. 3 Company A took over a sector of the front line, to drive the Boche back across the Meuse. They arrived at the Meuse on the night of Nov. 5 and remained there until the night of Nov. 10, when an order was received to advance across the river. At ten P. M. the advance began. This proved to be the last engagement of the war.

They were on the point of continuing the advance, when at 1045 A. M., Nov. 11, 1918, glad tidings came that all hostilities would cease at 11 o'clock.

The company hiked back to Hallas France on the thirteenth thinking it would soon return home, when on Nov. 24 because of its record, it was chosen as a unit of the Third Army of Occupation. They set out for Germany that day, and crossed into Germany at 7 a. m., Dec. 6. They were at Schweich, Germany when the history was closed although not completed.

This account gives a fair idea of the life of a company in the A. E. F.

STROLLER.

The Stroller loves to visit the Applied Chemistry Class; it is a fine place to get any kind of information. The other day when the stroller was so curious about Lillian Carpenter wearing an Elk pin, it was explained in that class by the following conversation:

Mrs. Lawrence: "Lillian, I didn't know you were an Elk."

Mr. Wilson: "Oh, yes, I knew she was a deer (deer) but I didn't know she was still."

When the Stroller asked why the chemistry class was dyeing those pieces of goods, Laura said that Mr. Wilson wanted them for a quilt and when it was finished it was to look just like Lillian's collar.

Dad Scarlett swears that he was not in any automobile accident on the evening of May 14. He says that he was at the College, working like a good junior on the May-day party decorations.

One of the art teachers was describing the ideal man. This is the gist of the description: "He must be tall, and dark, and must have brains." The Stroller is anxious to know if she has found him, or if she is still searching for the tall, dark man with brains.

The Stroller wishes to inform you that Mr. Metzler II is married. He is staying at present at Ellis Cook's and eating—oh, well, what's the use anyway?

One of the students on her way to school the other day was heard to remark: "Here I am, wearing a hat and carrying a French book. Yet they say this is a democracy."

It has been noticed that Mr. Rick-eubrode has a bad eye. He said that a crank hit him. We know that this is a good explanation—But what we want to know is what crank.

The staff has solved a serious problem for the students of the college. They wish to pass on the solution.

Now, Miss Miller says that since this is a college, all the women must be dignified and wear hats. Miss Anthony says that no one with sense will wear a hat in the summer. Puzzled students who are seeking approved grades in the classes of both these teachers have been undecided whether to do or not to do.

The staff recommends that you always carry your hat. If you meet Miss Anthony, continue to carry it, and you are safe. Keep your eye cocked, however, and if you see Miss Miller coming, the hat can be easily and quickly put on. While the staff does not pretend to have consulted Lady Duff-Gordon in the matter, they believe that this offers a satisfactory solution for this particular school, at least.

Heard in Juvenile Literature:

"Yes, man put woman on a stool and has been trying to keep her there ever since—but it has been the kitchen stool."

Having taken his penmanship examination, and satisfied Miss De Luce that he has had high school art, the Stroller is now ready to convince Miss Zenor that he can sing.

Isn't it too bad that no one can discover who the Stroller is? With so few boys around school, he would be at a premium. But, don't worry, girls, the Woman-in-the-Upstairs Window has hold of him pretty tightly.

We have been told that we should show as much enthusiasm in our lessons as we do at basket ball games. If so, the following scene would probably be the result:

Student (reciting): "Caesar—er—er bridged—er—er the Alps—"

Class: "Come on now! Soak it to 'em!"

Student flunks flat and sits down.

Class: "Ah punk! Tough luck! Don't sit down, ya big boob, what's the matter wid ya?"

—Central Wesleyan Star.

Let's try it in "principles" or Mr. Swinchart's English.

DR. WINSHIP TALKS AT ASSEMBLY.

"Democracy is not a matter of law, but of atmosphere—an atmosphere devoid of autocrats and aristocrats." This statement was the theme of Dr. Winship's talk at assembly Thursday, June 5.

This is an age of new things, and a time when no one should be in a rut. Automobiles were not made for ruts, nor ruts for automobiles. No one likes to accept the new, but the new is necessary. Each person must adopt new things since this is the time for new things. Newness is fundamental in education. "Put some newness into your teaching—put new timber into your work," said Dr. Winship.

Just as a cold storage egg is of no value in an incubator, so cold storage stuff is of no value in educational work. Dr. Winship said he thought the ministers would do well to define faith as "a shock absorber over the rough places in life." Then the boy would understand. This is an age when children learn quickly and education must adapt itself to the child's situation.

Dr. Winship said that community democracy is a new thing. As the fiber is bound together in cloth so must the community be bound together in a democracy. Autocrats and aristocrats have no place in the community democracy. Education must educate all the children and appreciate the boy who can raise rhubarb but cannot spell it.

Dr. Winship's talk was made interesting by many illustrations.

Miss Winn and Miss Degan spent the week end in St. Joseph. They were invited to attend the commencement program of Benton high school June 6.

Rear Admiral Joseph W. Oman, a cousin of Mrs. Alice Perrin has been appointed governor of the Virgin Islands. Gov. Oman was commandant of the Second Naval District during the war. He succeeds Rear Admiral James H. Oliver, retired. The Virgin Islands, or Danish West Indies, as they were called before the United States bought them from Denmark for $25,000,000 March 31, 1917, now have an officer of the United States Navy as Governor.

Miss Anthony has been asked by P. G. Holden, director of the Agriculture Extension Department, International Harvester Company, to send one of the sewing frames which she constructed to Aberdeen, South Dakota. The Aberdeen schools are planning to take up this branch of the work and were interested in seeing one of the frames.

These frames have been used the past year in the Nodaway County schools with success. It was here, that Mr. Holden was impressed with the work. He has given some very favorable reports concerning the same.

Miss Anthony has had charge of this work in the Nodaway schools.
